International “The Doctor as a Humanist” School, 2018-2019

Organised by Jonathan McFarland, Sechenov University Academic Writing Office

*Are you interested in exploring the Humanistic side to Medicine?
Do you believe as Hippocrates said that “wherever the art of medicine is loved, there is also a love of humanity”?
And that Medicine is both an art and a science?*

So, please join our NEW online Introduction to Medical Humanities course.

This is a Free, Online course in which we will introduce important topics relating to Literature and Medicine, Philosophy and Medicine, History and Medicine and much more.

We have attracted worldwide experts who will give lectures on such topics as “Narrative Based Medicine”, “Opera and Medicine”, “An introduction to Medical Philosophy” and many more. The lecturers come from such Universities as Johns Hopkins (USA), McGill (Canada), Glasgow (Scotland), Helsinki (Finland), Queen’s Belfast (Northern Ireland) and more.

Take a chance of working in an intercultural setting with foreign lecturers and students!

The course will be twice a month on Saturdays, starting on 1st December 2018 and ending at the beginning of June 2019. In April, participating students will be able to attend and contribute to the 2nd The Doctor as a Humanist Symposium at Sechenov University in Moscow.

You will be awarded with a Sechenov University certificate of completion of a elective online-course (2 ECTS).

We are looking forward to your motivation letter till 27th November 2018 at
